La Grande Theresa

AGAIN FACES

The French Court

PARIS, Aug. 8.- The notorious Humert family today faced a judge and jury to meet the charge of having peretrated what ex-Premier Waldeck-Roussean described as "the greatest swindle of the century." Investigat-ing Magistrate Leydet in May deckled commit Theresa Humbert, her husband, Federick, and her brother, for trial on the charges of forgery, the use of forged documents and swindling. He dismissed the cases against Eva lumbert (Theresa's daughter) and Marie Duignac (her sister).

Public curiosity, which has followed the fortunes of the family since the days of its social brilliancy, is again intensely wrought up, the chief inter-est centering in "La Grande Theresa." who has promised to produce at this trial the mysterious American mil-lionaries, the brother Crawford, on whom she based her story of an ineritance of $20,000,00, which she put orward as the security for the loans he obtained, amounting to $10,000.

The Palais du Justice was early this norning surrounded by large crowds ager to gain admittance to the cours room. A heavy force of Municipal Guarda preserved order, Many exuralonists came from distant points the railroads treating the trial as the would a national holiday. One of the xcursions came from Melan, which as the consistency that Frederick fumbert represented in the Chamber f Deputies and in which was located the famous Humbert Chateau with its parks, lakes, yachts and a first of genodolas. Of the thousands who ought admission, only a few hundred of the highly favored gained an en-trance to the court. Coquelin, the celebrated actor, was among the throng of artists, actors and authors a cking admission, and when he was turned back he remarked that the within the court-room recalled the days of the Dreyius and Zola trials.

The court-room is comparatively amail, the walls and ceiling, panelled with mahogany, giving it a sombre hue, 'ane judges' bench formed a high semi-circle at the further end The presiding judge, Gaston Ronnet eccupied the center of the semi-circle his asociates being Judges Monle: Planteau, Pignard and Du Dezort, Bon net is a man of middle age and bears an expression of benignity, but has a eputation of inflexible sterness. judges wore red silk gowns and velvet caps, which they removed as they ascended the beach. Within, a reserved enclosure were the leading members of the beach and bar in black silk gowns and wearing sting white neckcloths. To the rear was the small public area, each seat bear ing the name of its distinguished or cupant. The audience included diplo mats, academicians and members of the Legion of Honor. Many ladie were present, their rich gowns con-trasting with the gravity of their surroundings. Many of the ladles carried dainty luncheon bags, evidently expectmain on a footing of equality with dainty luncheon bags, evidently expect-other British companies in respect to other British companies in respect to any military, naval or postal aervice that the British Government may reduce that the British Government may reduce that the British mercantile marks.
